

Feedback Activity 2:

Thinking about Union campaigns or contract actions – or in particular this current Count on Me campaign, how would you answer these questions? In particular, think about how the new proposed structure will present barriers or benefits to mobilizing more quickly and deeply.

When the Union has moved quickly and powerfully in response to issues that supported the bargaining process, what did the Union do well?

Rank the top 3 in order of importance:

- Identified an issue that workers were concerned about
- Communicated the specific issue effectively and quickly
- Used Trained or active stewards
- Used one on one communication within departments
- Used phone trees or e-mails to communicate
- Used Channel 1000 reports
- Got news media attention
- Other? Explain

When I think of when the Union has responded too slowly to issues, what were the barriers?

Rank the top 3 in order of importance:

- We did not identify an issue that workers were concerned about
- We did not communicate the specific issue effectively or quickly
- We did not have enough trained or active stewards
- We did not use one on one communication within departments
- We did not use phone trees or e-mails to communicate
- We did not use Channel 1000 reports
- We did not get news media attention
- Other? Explain

Do you think the proposed structure will benefit the bargaining process and the Union's ability to mobilize more quickly and deeply?                      Circle one: Yes              No

Please explain:

Will the benefit be in the short term or long term?

Circle one: Short term              Long term              Both              Neither

Please explain:

Discuss benefits and barriers:

What else should the Union think about before making any changes...?
